

EVALUATION OF THE CHARACTERISTICS OF ELECTRIC PULSES

Abstract

A circuit for evaluating characteristics of duration and/or shape of an electric pulse induced in an element of an integrated circuit comprising an assembly of elements, each element being likely to receive an occasional external disturbance
5 generating an electric pulse in the element, and a measurement circuit connected to the elements to determine said characteristics of an electric pulse generated in one of the elements.